Dear Members, Partners, and Friends,
As I am preparing to step away from my role as Executive Director of the Fulton Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce, I want to express my deepest gratitude for the opportunity to serve this vibrant and resilient community. Ten years ago, I was awarded by the Chamber as the Young Professional of the Year, and now I had the pleasure to work at the Chamber, beginning this journey as the Director of Tourism, and ending my tenure with the distinct honor of serving as your Executive Director.

Over the past six years, I have been lucky to work alongside an incredible team, a dedicated Board of Directors, and so many passionate business owners, educators, and community leaders. Together, we've strengthened local partnerships, supported economic growth, and championed the voices of our members through both challenging and exciting times.

What has always stood out to me is the spirit of collaboration and commitment that runs through every corner of Fulton and Montgomery Counties. This is a region that believes in its people—and that belief has driven every initiative we've launched, every event we've hosted, and every conversation we've had about the future. The collaborations have led to programs and initiatives (which will only continue to grow), such as:

- The Fulton County Five Hiking Challenge,
 - The 44 Lakes Craft Beverage trail (with a very successful tasting event in 2023)
 - New programming to help businesses succeed, such as HR lunch and learns, educational seminars, speed networking events, and the semi-conductor awareness event (Everyone CHiPS In)
 - Ambassador program- revitalized the program, with a wonderful group of ambitious ambassadors!
 - Advocacy: Spent many in-person days in Albany, attending NYS Business Council meetings, and developing relationships with local, state, and federal elected officials.
 - Brought back our popular Young Professionals Group, which had a vibrant new start with more events to come.
 - Celebrating the PTECH 10th Year anniversary was wonderful. To showcase our unique partnership with HFM BOCES is something I will always be grateful for.
- Another great accomplishment is strengthening our relationship with our partners such as HFM BOCES and CTE, SUNY FMCC, FMS Workforce Solutions, Fulton County CRG, Fulton County Tourism, Montgomery County Tourism, and Montgomery County Business

It's hard to believe it's already been a month since I stepped into the role of Director of Membership at the Fulton Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce. The energy and enthusiasm from our local business community has been inspiring, and I'm excited to share some of the progress we've made together so far!

In just a few short weeks, we collaborated with FMS Workforce Solutions to host a very successful Speed Networking Event, giving members a fast-paced, fun way to build new business connections. We also attended AI Integration Training, helping businesses explore new tools to streamline their operations, improve customer engagement, and stay competitive in an ever-changing marketplace. Additionally, we hosted a massive number of jobseekers along with employers at the FMCC Job Fair. Thank you to both the community and our partners for making this a huge success!

Membership is growing! We've welcomed several new members to the Chamber family, expanding our network and strengthening the local economy. Behind the scenes, I've also been hard at work developing a Tiered Membership Program, which will provide businesses with more customized options to meet their unique goals and budgets.

Looking ahead, summer is shaping up to be a busy and exciting season! We'll be celebrating multiple ribbon cuttings to welcome new businesses into our community, and I'm working to foster new business-to-business collaborations across the region. It's an incredible time to be part of the Chamber as we continue building momentum and creating meaningful opportunities for our members.

If you haven't connected with me yet, let's make it happen! Whether you have ideas for new initiatives, want to get involved, or just want to grab a coffee and chat about the future of business in Fulton and Montgomery counties, my door is always open.

Here's to a summer full of growth, connections, and new possibilities!

GLOVE THEATRE NEWS

SUNDAY, MAY 4, SCREENING OF “RISE AND FALL OF THE BORSCHT BELT” Glove Board Member Aaron Enfield to Interview Jay Blotcher of the Newly-Created Catskills Borscht Belt Museum

An afternoon screening and discussion at the Glove Theatre in Gloversville will explore the fascinating history of the area of the Catskills Mountains once known as the Borscht Belt.

The Glove Theatre Education Series will offer a FREE screening of Rise and Fall of the Borscht Belt on Sunday, May 4 at 2:00 p.m. Following the screening, Glove Theatre Board Member Aaron Enfield will explore the history of the Borscht Belt with Jay Blotcher, a board member of the newly opened Catskills Borscht Belt Museum in Ellenville, NY.

Jay Blotcher

Blotcher is the programmer for the museum's inaugural Borscht Belt Film Fest, which took place this past November. Enfield previously worked with the film festival circuit, including the Hamptons International Film Festival, the Nantucket Film Festival, the Tribeca Film Festival, and the Washington D.C. Jewish Community Center Film Festival.

Rise and Fall of the Borscht Belt is a 1986 documentary by Oscar-winning director Peter Davis. The 80-minute film recounts the meteoric growth of this fabled section of the Catskill Mountains in Sullivan and Ulster Counties. Starting in the 1920s, it became a summer retreat and sanctuary for millions of Jews, primarily from the New York City area. These Jewish-owned establishments were a welcome alternative to the anti-Semitic hotels that routinely turned away Jewish vacationers.

From the 1950s through the 1980s, this sprawling region of bed and breakfast farmhouses, bungalow colonies, and resort hotels numbered in the several hundreds. This mountain paradise drew people from all over the Eastern Seaboard. The Borscht Belt was famed for its social scene, epic food spreads, and its entertainment. The Borscht Belt was the launching pad for iconic stand-up comics, such as Rodney Dangerfield, Joan Rivers, Alan King, Billy Crystal, and Jerry Seinfeld.

The Summer Musical program will provide a free two-week program for children in first through twelfth grade culminating with public performances of Disney's The Jungle Book KIDS from July 11-13. The Glove's Theatre Institute, a free, four-week full-day summer camp for middle and high school students, will give participants the opportunity to create and perform their own original adaptation of Gilbert and Sullivan's Pirates of Penzance with public performances from August 15-17.

This summer, The Glove welcomes back Jennifer Flynn to our YoungArts Program. Jennifer Flynn returns as Lead Teaching Artist of the Children's Musical for first through twelfth grade school students.

The Glove also welcomes two new teaching artists to the YoungArts team! Kristoph DiMaria will serve as Lead Teaching Artist of the Theatre Institute – The Glove's middle through high school theatrical summer day camp program. Jamie Eacker Jennings will serve as an Educator for both summer programs.

In addition to the educator staff, The Glove's YoungArts program has a dedicated team of volunteer educators/subject matter experts – including Holly St. Andrews, Aaron Enfield (Glove Board Member), and Chris Ihasz (Glove Board Member). All three volunteers have previously worked in the theatre world of sound, lighting, costume design, technical design, construction, special effects, and arts administration. They look forward to lending their skills and knowledge to The Glove's YoungArts program this summer.

Interested students, parents, and community members are invited to an Open House at The Glove on Saturday, May 3, 2025, from 10:00 am - 12:30 pm to meet the educator team and to learn more about this year's YoungArts program.

ST. MARY'S HEALTHCARE PRESIDENT & CEO JEFF METHVEN HONORED WITH "TOP WORKPLACE" LEADERSHIP AWARD

In the 27 months since Jeff Methven took the helm as president and CEO of St. Mary's Healthcare, the independent community hospital has been on a steady path of improvement—and patients, providers and the Capital region are taking notice.

Methven was honored earlier this month with the Top Workplace-es 2025 Leadership Award for large employers. He is the first president and CEO of a Capital Region acute care hospital to earn this distinction in the 14 years since the Times Union launched the Top Workplace recognition program.

In addition, St. Mary's was recognized as a Top Workplace 2025—another first for a Capital Region acute care provider.

Methven is quick to praise the team at St. Mary's. They, in turn, say the credit belongs to him.

"We chose Jeff because of his reputation as a transformational leader, and he is delivering beyond our highest expectations," said Michael Pepe, chair of the St. Mary's Board of Directors that selected Methven after a nationwide search for president and CEO.

Pepe acknowledged Methven's operational and administrative experience, strategic vision and commitment to St. Mary's core values. "What sets Jeff apart," Pepe added, "is his ability to inspire and motivate others to give their all. That's making a difference for St. Mary's and our community."

Last year alone, St. Mary's recruited 27 healthcare providers and 308 new associates. Perhaps even more telling, nearly 160 former team members "came home" to St. Mary's because of the positive work culture.

The community is also returning to their local hospital. Under Methven's leadership, St. Mary's is serving more patients, delivering more babies, introducing new services and making significant investments in programs, facilities, technology and people.

As executive director of human resources and chief people officer at St. Mary's, Lisa Mazzoccone sees the impact of these changes firsthand. "Despite a very competitive recruiting environment, more and more people want to join or come back to St. Mary's," she said.

"We expect even more interest once people learn that we're the only Top Workplace hospital in the region—and our president and CEO is the 'top' leader," Mazzoccone added.

Methven has spent his entire career in healthcare, developing programs that help ensure access to quality care, emphasize the patient experience and encourage collaboration and workforce development. Before joining St. Mary's, he served as executive vice president at Saratoga Hospital in Saratoga Springs. A graduate of Le Moyne College in Syracuse, Methven has an Executive Master of Business Administration degree from the William E. Simon Graduate School of Business Administration at the University of Rochester.

WALMART DISTRIBUTION CENTER #6096—EDWARD L. WILKINSON INDUSTRY OF THE YEAR AWARD

The Fulton Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce is proud to recognize WalMart Distribution Center #6096 (WMDC) as the recipient of the prestigious 2025 Edward L. Wilkinson Industry of the Year Award. This honor is given to a business that makes outstanding contributions to the region's economic growth and demonstrates exceptional commitment to the community and Chamber initiatives. Named in memory of Edward L. Wilkinson, a dedicated economic development leader, this award highlights companies that embody the values of leadership, community support, and economic impact.

Since its grand opening on April 19, 2000, WMDC has been a cornerstone of the local economy. Spanning an impressive 868,000 square feet—including 474,000 square feet of dry storage, 366,000 square feet of perishable storage, and 28,000 square feet of office space—this facility has grown into one of the region's largest employers, now boasting 1,030 employees. As WMDC celebrates its 25-year anniversary, it plans to host a summer or fall celebration, inviting employees and their families to tour the warehouse and enjoy a family-friendly cookout.

General Manager Nick Capece, who began his journey with WMDC seven years ago, has played a crucial role in the facility's growth and community outreach. Initially joining as a Senior Maintenance Manager, he quickly rose through the ranks to Assistant General Manager and, in 2024, became General Manager. He credits former GM Andy Walton for initiating the facility's transformation, emphasizing their shared leadership philosophy of employee engagement and community involvement.

WMDC has consistently demonstrated its commitment to the community by providing critical aid during emergencies. For instance, when the town of Fonda experienced issues with its drinking water, WMDC swiftly donated trailers of water, ensuring residents had access to clean water. This is just one of many examples of how the distribution center goes beyond business operations to support local needs.

WMDC has significantly impacted the region's economy, increasing its hourly employee count from 650 to 965 over the past seven years—a 30-35% growth. With an average hourly wage exceeding $30, employees contribute substantially to the local economy through spending on dining, retail, and services. Additionally, the facility prioritizes local vendors for catering, office supplies, signage and much more, ensuring that its investments remain within the community.

Nick Capece himself is a strong advocate for supporting local businesses. Residing in Johnstown, he frequents downtown coffee shops and other retailers with his eight-year-old, reinforcing the center's deep-rooted connection with the community. Through its Walton Family Fitness program, WMDC's partnership with local fitness centers, such as Fit Happens and Axis Strength Training, also exemplifies its dedication to employee well-being and local business support.

WMDC is an active participant in Chamber programs, supporting business education and workforce development. The facility has hosted high school tours, allowing students to explore career opportunities in logistics and transportation. A standout moment was when a truck driver shared his annual earnings of $130,000, opening students' eyes to lucrative career paths.

The distribution center also sponsors and participates in the Chamber's annual Golf Tournament, which funds scholarships for regional high school seniors. Employees serve as mentors in programs like PTECH's Workplace Wednesdays and the Women in Workforce initiative, encouraging young women to explore non-traditional roles in logistics and management.

WMDC's workforce development programs, such as the "Associate to Driver" and "Associate to Technician" initiatives, provide employees with valuable skills to advance their careers. By investing in professional growth, WMDC fosters upward mobility within its workforce, ensuring long-term economic stability for its employees and the broader community.

Beyond economic contributions, WMDC is deeply engaged in philanthropy and volunteerism. The facility donates food trailers to the Northeast Food Bank in Latham, which redistributes resources to local communities. Employees volunteer at the the Northeast Food Bank, Fisher House for Veterans, the Salvation Army, and participate with programs such as the Family Counseling Center's Angel Program, supporting dozens of families during the holidays.

In addition to direct contributions, WMDC provides financial support to numerous local organizations, including post-prom events, school backpack programs, and first responder groups, to name a few. Its employees actively participate in community events, from the Johnstown Harvest Fest to the Holiday Parade in partnership with WalMart Gloversville.

As WMDC moves forward, it remains dedicated to employee development and regional economic growth. With the possibility of facility expansion to meet increasing grocery demands (one-third of all Americans do their grocery shopping at Wal-Mart), the distribution center is poised to further strengthen its role in the local and regional supply chain. Leadership at WMDC continuously seeks ways to enhance employee training and career advancement, ensuring long-term prosperity for its workforce and community.

In accepting the 2025 Edward L. Wilkinson Industry of the Year Award, WMDC reaffirms its commitment to being a vital economic force and a dedicated community partner. As Nick Capece expressed, "We deeply appreciate our partnership with the Chamber and our communities. Our goal is to continue making a positive impact in every way possible."

The Glove Theatre: Winner of the 2025 Barbara V. Spraker Tourism Partner Award

The Fulton Montgomery Regional Chamber of Commerce proudly recognizes The Glove Theatre as the recipient of the prestigious 2025 Barbara V. Spraker Tourism Partner Award. This distinguished honor is awarded to a Chamber member who has demonstrated outstanding dedication to attracting visitors to the region while showcasing the vibrant and positive aspects of the local community.

Originally built in 1914, The Glove Theatre in Groversville, has long stood as a beacon of arts, culture, and community spirit. From its early days presenting vaudeville acts, orchestral concerts, and opera performances to becoming Fulton County's largest movie house in the 1950s, The Glove Theatre has always played a vital role in local entertainment. However, its survival was not always assured. In the 1990s, the theatre faced the threat of demolition, only to be saved by passionate community members who recognized its historical and cultural significance. Today, it continues to be a thriving centerpiece of Groversville's downtown, fostering artistic expression and economic revitalization.

Over the past two years, The Glove Theatre has significantly expanded its programming, offering theatrical productions, concerts, educational events, and film screenings. By hosting at least one event every week for the past three and a half years, The Glove Theatre has not only enriched the cultural fabric of the community but has also attracted audiences from near and far. In 2024 alone, the theatre hosted over 200 events, logged more than 3,500 volunteer hours, and welcomed more than 7,800 guests. Recognizing the need for accessible entertainment, in its repertoire they have made sure to provide low-cost and free events, ensuring that art and culture remain within reach for all. From movie nights and live music to dance parties and youth theatre productions, the theatre has become a space where families and friends gather, celebrate creativity, and share meaningful experiences.

Winning the Barbara V. Spraker Tourism Partner Award acknowledges the tireless efforts of The Glove Theatre's board of directors, volunteers, and supporters in making the theatre a cultural and economic catalyst for the region...and beyond. This recognition highlights not only the theatre's role in entertainment but also its ongoing mission to preserve a historic treasure.

"We are bringing people to The Glove Theatre who have never been here before—both locals and visitors from beyond our region, including Amsterdam, Cooperstown, Clifton Park, Albany, Saratoga, and more," said the theatre's leadership. "This award validates our commitment to both our past and our future. We are not just entertaining—we are preserving history and creating a dream for downtown Groversville."

The Glove Theatre's momentum continues to build, with ambitious plans for expansion and revitalization. In November 2022, the theatre was awarded $1.993 million through New York State's Downtown Revitalization Initiative (DRI), followed by an additional $2 million from the Restore New York grant program in 2023. These funds will help support critical capital improvements, including ADA-compliant upgrades, an elevator, the development of a black box theatre on the third floor, and the restoration of the carriage house for expanded programming and support spaces.

Partnering with architectural firm Thaler Reilly Wilson (TRW) Architecture & Preservation, The Glove Theatre is now in the design phase of these renovations. "We are working on the intricate details of our future—from lighting to tiles to infrastructure improvements," theatre representatives shared. "It's an exciting time, and we can't wait to bring our vision to the community."

The Glove Theatre's success is deeply rooted in its collaborations with local and regional organizations. By hosting events such as the Fulton County SPCA's quarterly trivia nights, environmental presentations from the Southern Adirondack Audubon Society, and the Elizabeth Cady Stanton Hometown Association's film screenings, to name a few, the theatre extends its reach to diverse audiences. Family-friendly initiatives, such as a partnership with the Groversville Recreation Commission for a matinee series and the Rotterdam Aquarium's Rep-tile Show, have drawn record-breaking attendance, further solidifying the theatre's role as a community hub.

Additionally, The Glove Theatre fosters economic growth by supporting local businesses. Through initiatives such as partnerships with restaurants for visitors to enjoy dinner and a show, sourcing supplies from nearby vendors, and reinvesting earnings into the local economy, the theatre continues to be a driving force behind downtown Groversville's revitalization.

At the heart of The Glove Theatre's success are its dedicated volunteers. With over 3,500 volunteer hours recorded in 2024, community members continue to play a pivotal role in the theatre's operations. From working concessions and box office shifts to assisting with productions, these individuals are the lifeblood of The Glove.

"We are a predominantly volunteer-run organization, and our volunteers are as excited as our audiences," said theatre representatives. "Each event brings new volunteers eager to be part of our story. Their passion and dedication to The Glove are priceless."

The next five years hold immense promise for The Glove Theatre. As renovation plans come to fruition, programming expands, and partnerships flourish, the theatre's leadership remains steadfast in their vision: to be a premier arts and entertainment destination, a beacon of history and culture, and a thriving economic engine for downtown Groversville.

"If we build it, they will come. And they already are," theatre leadership emphasized. "Every event, every show, every guest who walks through our doors brings us one step closer to realizing our dream. The future of The Glove Theatre is brighter than ever, and we can't wait to share it with the world."

Winning the 2025 Barbara V. Spraker Tourism Partner Award is a milestone in The Glove Theatre's incredible journey. It is a testament to those who believe in its future. As The Glove Theatre continues to welcome audiences, support local talent, and drive economic growth, it remains a shining example of what can be accomplished when a community comes together to preserve its cultural heritage while dreaming big for the future.

RICMAR DESIGN & PRINT ANNOUNCES NEW SERVICES FOR 2025

Ricmar Design & Print is announcing new services and new faces at its Main Street, Gloversville location. The business, formerly of Amsterdam, moved to Gloversville in August of 2023 and has found a home in the downtown business district ever since.

"We have been amazed by the warmth and generosity of our community here in Gloversville," stated Kristina Gillmore, owner of Ricmar Design & Print. "The move has brought us new friends, new customers, and a new outlook heading into 2025."

Ricmar Design & Print is a business with roots that stretch back over 45 years with Gillmore as the 3rd owner, purchasing the company from Bob Olbrycht in March of 2013. Ricmar has traditionally provided services including graphic design, custom printing for businesses and organizations, catalog design and direct mail marketing design and production. In 2025, the business is expanding its services with the aid of a Microenterprise Grant provided by Fulton County and administered by Fulton County Center for Regional Growth. Grant funds have meant the ability to expand services and staffing.

"We are thankful to CRG for their support and guidance throughout the grant process," added Gillmore. "The grant award has allowed us to purchase a large format, fine art printer and some finishing equipment. We are now able to work closely with local artists, helping them to create high-quality large format prints and greeting cards of their original works."

Fulton County Center for Regional Growth President and CEO, Ronald Peters praised Krissy, stating, "It's been a pleasure working with her. CRG supports small businesses, the foundation of our local communities and economy." He further explained the CDBG Microenterprise

Grant Program, funded by HUD and managed by HCR, provides up to $25,000 to Fulton County small businesses for startup or expansion, aiming to create jobs and stimulate the local economy.

Kenneth Adamczyk, Economic Development Specialist at Fulton County Center for Regional Growth said, "Small businesses are the backbone of economic development. The great thing about Ricmar and Krissy is that their clients are treated like a friend which makes every encounter a memory not just a sale."

Gloversville Downtown Development Specialist, Jennifer Donovan expressed her appreciation, stating, "We're thrilled to have Ricmar Design & Print in downtown Gloversville. They're a fantastic team player and a great supporter of other local businesses and organizations. Krissy's passion for Gloversville is exactly the kind of entrepreneurial spirit we need to revitalize our downtown."

2025 has seen the addition of services beyond the personalized work with area artists. Jennifer Jennings has joined the team at Ricmar. Jennings brings with her over 25 years of experience in nonprofit marketing, social media management, and website creation. "I am excited to join Krissy and the team at Ricmar," Jennings noted. "I began working with Krissy as a client years ago and I know the care, dedication, and creativity she brings to every job. I'm happy to be a part of a passionate group of individuals."

Jennifer Jennings

Ricmar Design & Print will continue to provide their established print and design services while also adding marketing services for businesses and nonprofit organizations, branding services and management, social media and website management as well as large format fine art print services.

"We strive to be a resource for our clients, helping them discover their voice through design, marketing, and relationship building", adds Gillmore. "Our expertise ensures high-quality work while also focusing on the fun."

THE ARC LEXINGTON AND TRANSITIONS CEO SHALONI WINSTON NAMED A 2025 REMARKABLE WOMAN

The Arc Lexington and Transitions are proud to announce that Shaloni Winston, CEO of The Arc Lexington and founder of Transitions, has been named the 2025 Remarkable Woman of the Capital District by Nexstar Media Group.

Each year during Women's History Month, Nexstar honors women across the country who are making a meaningful difference in their communities. This year, more than 12,000 nominations were submitted nationwide, with 125 local winners selected—each representing their region in a national celebration of leadership, service, and impact.

Winston was chosen for her unwavering advocacy and life-changing work supporting individuals with developmental disabilities—particularly her creation of Transitions, a program that empowers young adults with autism and learning differences to thrive in college, careers, and independent living. Founded in 2015, Transitions now serves over 110 students across three campuses in New York's Capital Region, welcoming participants from across the country and abroad.

In April, Winston traveled to Hollywood, California to represent the Capital Region at a national celebration hosted by Brooke Burke. There, she joined 124 other local honorees for a televised event highlighting the resilience, achievements, and stories of women making an extraordinary difference. As part of her recognition, Winston was also awarded $1,000 to donate to the nonprofit of her choice—and she selected Transitions.

"I still can't quite believe it," said Winston. "Being in Hollywood and surrounded by so many incredible women was both humbling and inspiring. But what meant the most was having the chance to share the story of Transitions and the students who continue to amaze me every day. This isn't just my recognition—it belongs to our entire team, our families, and especially my daughter, who inspired it all."

Development. It has been a pleasure to work with such a talented team of individuals with unified goals in mind.

Events: It has been amazing to lead hundreds of successful events - ribbon cuttings, our legislative breakfast, our business expo and awards ceremony, clean up days, working with our partners for the Walleye Challenge, our annual job fair, continuing to promote our member events, our annual sports award banquet, the golf classic, Small Business Saturday and our Shop Local campaigns, Workplace Wednesdays with PTECH, CareerCon, Healthcare Conversations, and Women in the Workforce with HFM BOCES Career and Technical Education (CTE), Business After Hours...the list could really go on and on with our successes.

Chamber Championship: Thank you to St. Mary's Healthcare, Nathan Littauer Hospital, National Grid, The Family Counseling Center, The Mental Health Association of Fulton and Montgomery Counties, and NBT Bank for committing to our year-round Chamber Champion Sponsorship. This sponsorship helps fund the programs and initiatives listed and continue the drive for economic development, advocacy, and community engagement.

While I'm excited for the next chapter in my own journey, I leave with confidence knowing the Chamber will continue to thrive. The mission is strong, the leadership is top-tier, and the momentum is undeniable.

Thank you for your trust, your support, and most of all, your friendship. It has been an extraordinary privilege to serve this community.

With sincere appreciation,

Anne Boles

HOCHUL ANNOUNCES BUDGET AGREEMENT

Governor Kathy Hochul announced on 4/29 an agreement has been reached with legislative leaders on key priorities in the Fiscal Year 2026 New York State Budget.

Highlights of the Fiscal Year 2026 Budget include:

- A $1 billion tax cut for middle-class and low-income New Yorkers, bringing tax rates to their lowest levels in nearly 70 years.
- Delivering a sweeping increase to the Child Tax Credit by giving eligible families a $1,000 credit for kids younger than 4 years old and a $500 credit for kids ages 4-16, effectively doubling the credit for the average family
- Expanding access to childcare by investing $2.2 billion statewide, including a $350 million investment to save child care subsidies for tens of thousands of New York City families.
- Sending New York's first-ever Inflation Refund checks, which will dedicate $2 billion providing direct cash assistance to more than 8 million New Yorkers with checks of up to $400 per family.
- Reducing the Payroll Mobility Tax for small businesses and eliminating it for self-employed individuals earning $150,000 or less.
- Providing $340 million to ensure free breakfast and lunch for every K-12 student in New York, saving families an average of $1,600 per child.

- Investing a record $357 million in gun violence prevention programs that have helped drive gun violence down by more than 50% when compared to pandemic-era peaks.
- Fixing the discovery laws to support victims and survivors, and reduce the number of cases being thrown out on technicalities, while investing $120 million in funding for discovery law compliance for prosecutors and defense attorneys.
- Creating a new Class B misdemeanor to crack down on individuals who use a mask to conceal their identity when committing a Class A misdemeanor or higher crime or fleeing the scene immediately after committing such a crime.
- Making our subways safer by investing $77 million for police officers on every overnight subway train, installing platform barriers and LED lighting and allocating $25 million for welcome centers to connect homeless individuals with services and care.
- Strengthening involuntary commitment, improving Kendra's Law and investing $16.5 million in Assisted Outpatient Treatment and $2 million in OMH staffing to ensure people with severe mental illness get compassionate care.
- Strengthening the continuum of mental health care by investing $160 million to create a 100 new forensic inpatient psychiatric beds in New York City.
- Setting a statewide bell-to-bell distraction-free schools policy with a $13.5 million investment to help schools operationalize bans on smart phone and other internet-enabled devices usage during the school day, making New York the largest state in the nation with a bell-to-bell ban.
- Investing $47 million to make community college free for adult students pursuing associate degrees in certain high-demand industries.
- Leveling the playing field for homebuyers by banning private equity purchases within the first 90 days a home is on the market and making investments in Pro-Housing Communities and City of Yes.
- Making a record $1 billion investment in climate priorities, including assistance to electrify homes, thermal energy networks, EV charging infrastructure and renewable energy projects.
- Making the biggest capital investment in New York's transportation history by fully funding the Metropolitan Transportation Authority's (MTA's) proposed $68.4 billion 2025-2029 capital plan to build the Interborough Express, crack down on fare evasion and focus on much needed repairs and upgrades.
- Investing an additional $800 million in the Department of Transportation's 5-year Capital Plan to support core highway and bridge construction projects.

With a conceptual agreement in place, the legislative houses are expected to pass bills that will enact these priorities in the coming days. Based on a preliminary assessment of the negotiated changes to the Executive proposal, the total Budget for FY 2026 is currently estimated at $254 billion. The FY 2026 Budget does not raise income or statewide business taxes, maintains record State reserves to safeguard state finances and grants the Governor the powers necessary to make future adjustments if actions by the federal government require.
